

EMILY HUNTER SAVORS
DIRECTOR OF GRANTS MANAGEMENT

Since 1991, Emily has assisted the Foundation in carrying out its services to donors and supporting organizations, nonprofit organizations, and the community at-large. She has served as a catalyst in addressing community needs by researching, reviewing, and spearheading projects for funding consideration, and developing funding partnerships for special initiatives.

Prior to joining the Foundation, Emily was director of housing and community services for South Middlesex Opportunity Council.

Emily has a bachelor of arts in Economics from Kenyon College and masters' degrees in public policy and theological studies from Harvard University.
